

© This symbol is shown wherever a connector square is used. This trick was taught by Mary Ellen Hopkins many years ago and we are sure she is the one who created this time saving trick. Everyone uses it because everyone thinks it's always been here, but that's not true. We think she deserves the credit for this well-known technique even though few realize who created it in the first place. Thank you, Mary Ellen! How could we sew without a connector square?

Connector Square Example